

Winter Field Training [WFT]

*Do you have the skills to travel through the rugged Boreal Forest?
Are you willing to learn new skills, knowledge, and gain experience?*

The Winter Field Training is designed to be both an adventure and an educational experience that will let you see the true challenges of travel in winter. Instruction will be ongoing during the trip and you will be learning constantly. Boreal Wilderness Institute's Winter Field Training is a journey through the boreal forest, where participants have a chance to really discover the winter forest and its many resources.

This course is 3-days of training in the boreal forest starting off where the Wilderness Survival Winter Field Session left off. It is designed to be a continuous learning experience where you will be challenged as you live in the winter boreal environment. Participants will earn BWI's Survival Certificate on successful completion of this course and its prerequisites.

Course Information: Cost includes the instruction, extensive course materials, use of various materials and tools. Food (1 Bag Lunches, 2 Simple Camp Breakfasts and 2 Simple Camp Suppers), Personal Gear, Winter Boots and Winter Clothing are NOT Provided. Please read the WSWFT Equipment List and ask questions before you arrive to avoid problems.

Transportation to the start point and or movement between camps (if conditions warrant) are not included in the price. Locations change each year and vary depending on snow conditions, road conditions, weather, location availability, and fire bans, etc.
